

Where are they hiding?

In November 1911, these two prisoners, Henry Craig and David McIntyre, could not be found anywhere on St Helena Island. The warders searched the island and the police scoured the mainland. Day after day for nearly two weeks they searched, but the men could not be found.

Where were the escapees?

We now know what became of those prisoners – so we've decided to give this searching policeman some help..... but he's confused.

Can you help him figure out what our note says?

The escapee prisoners
were hidden
in the space between the ceiling
and the floor
of the prison.
